

Create 21st-century
MUSIC EDUCATORS

Classroom technology is always changing, and it can be hard to know where to start. Teaching in the 21st century means teachers have access to a world of information at their fingertips, but where can a young educator begin?

Quaver's HigherEd Programs offer:

FREE resources for methods and practicum courses
FREE curriculum for student teaching
FREE curriculum for new graduates
 ...that work with proven traditional pedagogies!

QuaverMusic Six-Week Syllabus

You and your students get access to the full curriculum – lesson plans, supplements, and more! QuaverEd cloud-based resources make it easy for students to take the resources with them wherever they may be teaching, whether it's in a traditional classroom or in a distance teaching environment.

QuaverEd's HigherEd Program for Music Education majors is formatted to a six-week syllabus to help you guide students through their journey into the 21st-century classroom.

Week 1	Educational Technology
Week 2	Best Practices and Integrations Techniques
Week 3	Resources and Integration Practice
Week 4	Quaver 101
Week 5	Quaver Integration Techniques
Week 6	Final Practice and Discussion

Over 150 institutions are already using Quaver's HigherEd Program!

"In my opinion, QuaverMusic.com is THE most comprehensive tool for Music Education in the 21st Century! Use it with whatever method you choose; Kodaly, Orff, etc. It also aligns easily to Music Learning Theory! The program stays current without having to buy new books every few years, and the assistance from the company is exemplary!"

Wendy van Gent, Northern State University

"One of the students came to see me about his placements for student teaching next semester and we were talking about what grade level (elementary, middle school, high school) he saw himself teaching after graduation. He said, "Until yesterday, I would never have said elementary music. But now I know that I don't have to create everything myself. I could do this!"

Mary Dave, East Tennessee State University

"My college students at Central Washington University also are amazed when they discover the creativity, sequence and comprehension of the lessons in the Quaver curriculum. I think they are unexpectedly surprised by the many options Quaver lessons offer them as they compose the lessons they teach in class."

Leslie, Central Washington University
